Sister Krim was a great woman and a great religious. She put her whole heart into her life with God and into her work. She had the power to carry out her ideas and was willing to try new things, guided by sound common sense. Concerned with people, she kept busy and happy being of service to them. The success she achieved and the amazing loyalty shown her were the result of hard work and great faith and love. Friends from her early religious life, people she had helped, the girls who received her vigorous training, the religious she knew, all felt that, in the Name of God, Sister Krim truly cared for them.
